Ford Pitches Second Win; Snider Hurt

By Jack Hand
NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—Chunky Whitey Ford threw a brilliant four-hitter at Brooklyn today after the rookie Kari Spooner for five runs in the first inning to square the World Series with a 5-1 "must" victory in the sixth game at Yankee Stadium.

The money - playing Yanks, backed against the walls of their own spacious park by three defeats in Brooklyn's chummy field, assured this series of a seventh game before it was hardly begun.

Two walks, two singles and a sliced three-run homer, about 350 feet into the lower right - field stands, left the Dodgers five runs behind before Manager Walter Alston got his 24-year-old lefthander out of action. After that it was up to Ford, whose lefthanded pitches had won the series opener.

Ford was up to the job, turning in a steady effort that surpassed his earlier start when he had to be relieved in the ninth.

Cruel Blow
Dodger hopes received a cruel blow in the third inning when Duke Snider, the home run hero of the series with four in the first five games, had to leave the lineup because his left knee "popped" as he chased an outfield fly by Bill Skowron.

Snider's injury wasn't known to the 64,000 fans or reporters until Don Zimmer came up to bat for (Please turn to Page 9)

Nationalists Take Lead

JAKARTA, Indonesia, Oct. 3 (AP)—The Nationalist "Proletarian Front" tonight appeared headed for a smashing victory in Indonesia's first parliamentary elections.

Its vote, mostly in Java alone, snowballed near the six million mark, with margins over three other major parties ranging up to two million.

The Nationalists, whose basic policies dovetail with those of the Indonesian Communists, seem sure to capture a majority of the Parliament's 260 seats. Java, the most populous of the republic's 3,000 islands, has 168 seats.

The latest unofficial vote totals of the top four parties showed a surprising setback for the Moslem Masjumi party.

Vote Tabulated
The Nationalists had 5,788,850; the Moslem Orthodox Radicals, 4,399,378; the Communists, 4,089,273; and the Masjumi, 3,648,583.

Most of these returns came from Java, with scatterings from parts of Sumatra, the Celebes, Borneo, the Lesser Sundas and the Moluccas.

Voting started last Thursday and is to continue for weeks on outlying islands.

The Masjumi, regarded as moderate and right of center and inclined to be pro-West, was a pre-election choice to win easily.

Fraternity Boys Are Innocent Of Goat-Napping

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 3 (AP)—Windows at the Delta Tau Delta fraternity house of the University of Pittsburgh were opened wide tonight—after the brothers admitted the goat they'd kept overnight wasn't Billy XIV, the famous Navy mascot.

Someone abducted Billy from Annapolis yesterday. There were reports two young men in an auto had been seen driving from the Naval Academy and it was assumed they might have Billy. By an odd coincidence, the Pitt and Navy football teams meet next Saturday.

Soon after the goat-napping was reported, the Delta Tau Delta boys got a goat from a nearby farm. They kept it overnight and didn't deny it was Billy—until the U. S. Marines took a hand.

A detachment of Marines from the recruiting service here visited the frat house, found the goat was a nanny and not Billy. The brothers, weary of their joke, took their goat back to the farm.

Flying Saucers Real, Says Expert

WEST BOATHLY, England, Oct. 3 (AP)—Air Chief Marshal Lord Dowding, 73, says he believes there are flying saucers from other planets, though he has never seen one.

The wartime boss of the Royal Air Force Fighter Command, a prominent spiritualist, declared in a lecture Sunday, "The evidence is overwhelming."

He added, however, he doesn't expect flying saucer operators to land and tell their secrets to earthmen "until we have learned better manners."

New Turnpike Jammed

CLEVELAND, Oct. 3 (AP)—More than 80,000 cars crowded the new Ohio Turnpike yesterday, creating traffic backlogs of up to two hours at toll plazas.

AEC Centers Laboring To Tame H-Bomb

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—Top U. S. atomic scientists are joining forces at five research centers in an effort to harness the terrific power of the hydrogen bomb for peacetime energy purposes.

Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission announced this today. Scientists connected with the long-range program, known as Project Sherwood, said it holds the promise of supplying mankind with all the energy it will need for all time to come.

Strauss told a news conference he is hopeful of success—perhaps within 20 years. The AEC chairman cautioned in a formal statement, however:

"Our work is in the research stage and many years of intensive effort may be required before the first prototype of an operating thermonuclear machine may be developed."

Difficult Problems
"We have every intention of attacking as vigorously as possible the remaining problems."

He said some of the problems to be overcome are of "extreme difficulty."

Strauss disclosed that Project Sherwood, which seeks in effect to tame the terrible force unleashed when light atoms fuse, has been under way since 1951 and now is being pressed forward at Princeton University; AEC laboratories operated by the University of California at Los Alamos, N. M., and Livermore, Calif.; Oak Ridge, Tenn., and New York University.

The Nationalists, whose basic policies dovetail with those of the Indonesian Communists, seem sure to capture a majority of the Parliament's 260 seats. Java, the most populous of the republic's 3,000 islands, has 168 seats.

The latest unofficial vote totals of the top four parties showed a surprising setback for the Moslem Masjumi party.

Army Launches Reserve Program

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—The Army made a small beginning on the new national reserve program today with the start of training for 1,167 youngsters.

Among them are 672 National Guardsmen, enrolled under a provision of the reserve law which permits members of the guard to volunteer for six months training with the Army and complete their military obligation in a total of eight years. Other guardsmen must serve until they are 28.

The Army is geared to handle 5,000 six-month trainees during the last three months of this calendar year and is getting ready to take in more than 8,000 monthly starting in January.

BRIDGE OPENED—Temporary span carrying Route 402 across Brodheads Creek at Minisink Hills was opened to traffic yesterday at 5 p.m. Bridge was built by Imbt Construction Co. to replace one destroyed by flood. First car (right) to cross was driven by Elmer Segear, East Stroudsburg.

COL. FRED R. Evans, commander of 109th Infantry Regiment and Lt. Col. John J. Rametta, 109th Infantry Regiment are shown during ceremonies in Wayne Gym, State Teachers College when 12 citations—regimental commander's certificates of merit—were presented to individuals in recognition of their work during the Aug. 18-19 flood and their cooperation and assistance to the National Guard units stationed here during the flood emergency.

109th Infantry Presents 14 Awards For Achievements Following Flood

RESOURCEFULNESS, initiative, unity of purpose and general notable achievement during the flood emergency here during the period from Aug. 18 to Aug. 27 won for 14 people last night a citation—the regimental commander's certificate of merit—from Col. Fred R. Evans, commander of the 109th Infantry Regiment with headquarters in Scranton.

Support Military
Those honored were seated before the entire Company G, 109th Infantry Regiment unit here—one of the units first to arrive in the flood area and one of the last to be relieved of duty—while Col. Evans, aided by Lt. Col. John J. Rametta presented the certificates.

Capt. John McDonald, regimental adjutant, read each citation. Basically each set forth the individual achievements of those honored and contained an additional citation "for exceptionally meritorious service in support of military operations of the 109th Infantry Regiment and on the Civil Defense operation headed by Judge Fred W. Davis."

"Judge Davis, I was around in various areas and let me say that the Civil Defense operation in Stroudsburg could not be matched, and I've been very frank in saying so elsewhere," Col. Evans said.

The regimental commander was full of praise for Capt. Shanley, and every member of Company G for their work during the flood emergency. He noted they had been "booted" around by the flood—11 members had homes struck by flood waters—and "you had problems after the flood," he added.

"But let me tell you the entire National Guard organization is proud of you and Gen. Fluck will be here on a special, unscheduled trip, tomorrow morning to check your problems and see things are properly worked out."

Those who received the citations were:

Judge Fred W. Davis, CD coordinator, for exceptional organizational ability, mature judgment and forceful leadership during an unprecedented emergency.

17,000 Archers To Hunt Deer

HARRISBURG, Oct. 3 (AP)—The Revenue Department today estimated 17,000 archery deer hunters will participate in a special 12-day season for bow and arrow enthusiasts which starts Oct. 10.

Some 10,000 special $2 license fees have been issued to archers. Last year, nearly 15,000 took out the permits.

The fee for the special license is $2. In addition, archers must have the regular $3.15 hunting license.

Courtesy Trip To Moscow Cancelled By Faure, Pinay

PARIS, Oct. 3 (AP)—Premier Edgar Faure and Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay cancelled today a scheduled "courtesy and friendship visit" to Moscow. The explanation was that the atmosphere is not favorable now for this type of trip.

The French action reflected the bitterness in Paris at what was apparently considered a gratuitous blow to French prestige in the United Nations General Assembly's vote to discuss the Algerian situation.

Reds Back North Africa

In Moscow, Communist party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev, in effect the spokesman for world communism, announced the Soviet Union supports the independence movement in North Africa. He called it the "national liberation" movement. The Soviet Union—and world communism—for years has sponsored "national liberation movements" in all areas of the colonial world, using such support as a potent cold war weapon among underdeveloped peoples.

The official French announcement said the visit of Faure and Pinay to Moscow, planned for Oct. 14 to 16, was put off to a future date. But there was no discussion of any later date, and some thought it extremely unlikely the trip would be made.

Putting off the trip was part of the aftermath of a vote in the U.N. Assembly to debate the situation in Algeria. Russia voted with the majority in the 28-27 vote. France maintains Algeria is an integral part of metropolitan France and that the subject is purely an internal matter, falling outside the competence of the U.N. In protest, France began a boycott of the Assembly.

Apply Pressure

As a further development, the Foreign Ministry tonight announced that French ambassadors in most countries which voted for the Algerian discussion in the Assembly have been instructed to call the attention of these nations to the effect the vote might have on future relations with France.

Dangerously Rabid

However, Roland Lindemann, proprietor of a nearby game farm, led a posse in tracking down and killing the errant fox. An examination of the carcass by the state Health Department Laboratory disclosed the fox was dangerously rabid.

Nancy might well be doomed to death unless she received antirabies injections promptly.

But who was she, and how to find her? All authorities knew was that she was a pretty little blonde, that her first name was Nancy, and that her family traveled in a blue 1954 sedan.

State Police teletyped these meager clues to 13 states. Newspapers described the incident. Radio and television stations appealed to Nancy's parents to come forward if her life was to be spared.

Today, as the hours of peril mounted, a neighbor here heard the radio description, recognized it, and hurried to Nancy's mother, Mrs. Joseph Bihler.

New Concern Over Illness Drops Stocks

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—Prices dropped $5 a share and more today as selling came into the stock market on renewed concern over President Eisenhower's illness.

More than four billion dollars was estimated to have been wiped from the valuation of all shares listed on the New York Stock Exchange despite the fact that only briefly did the selling show much urgency.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined $3.80 to close at $169.50. That was below the closing figure of $170.10 a week earlier, when the market plummeted on news of President Eisenhower's heart attack.

On that day, market valuation dropped around 13 billions. There was a partial recovery later in the week, but those gains were erased today.

Close At Lows

The market opened today on a lower note and for a time near noon, the ticker tape fell behind in reporting transactions. Prices recovered slightly in the afternoon, only to run into considerable selling in the last half hour. As a result, shares generally were at their lows of the day at the close.

Bethlehem Steel lost $6.25 a share to close at $118. General Motors declined $5.37 to $137.12. Standard Oil (NJ) $3.87 to $129.62. Chrysler $3.75 to $94. International Paper $4.50 to $104.25. Aluminum Co. of America $4.12 to $78.50. Du Pont $5 to $214 and Southern Railway $3.37 to $90.12.

Lack of encouraging reports on President Eisenhower's condition was cited by some Wall Streeters as a factor in today's decline. However, many analysts have been predicting lower markets over the next few weeks because of nervousness engendered by the size of last Monday's fall.

Small Amount Of Work Done By President

DENVER, Oct. 3 (AP)—President Eisenhower's doctors reported tonight that he had a "good day" and was in a cheerful mood with "no evidence of fatigue" such as caused concern Sunday night.

A medical bulletin from Fitzsimons Army Hospital at 8:45 p.m., MST, (11:45 p.m., EDT) said this: "The President had a good day. He was in a cheerful mood."

"There was no evidence of fatigue."

Dines With Mamie
"The President had supper and again visited with Mrs. Eisenhower."

His condition continues to be satisfactory without complications."

During the day, Mr. Eisenhower held a 10-minute business conference with his top lieutenant, Sherman Adams, and:

1. Signed a letter to Nixon saying he hoped the vice president would continue to hold and preside at meetings of the Cabinet and National Security Council as he has done in the past during presidential absences from Washington.

Signs Documents
2. Signed a memorandum to Secretary of Treasury Humphrey which, in effect, makes Japan a member of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

3. Put his name on another routine memorandum authorizing John B. Hollister, director of the International Cooperation Administration, to send to six congressional committees a report which will say that no additional decisions have been made since June 30 on continuing foreign aid for various nations.

4. Approved an extension of time, from Oct. 1, to Oct. 21, for a presidential emergency board to report on a labor dispute between the Pennsylvania Railroad and 35,000 non-operating employees.

Cheerful, Of Course
These actions were announced by Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty, who told reporters that "of course" Eisenhower is cheerful.

A period of concern had set in last night when his doctors found the chief executive tired and feeling under par. The physicians, trying to determine the cause, took an X-ray of his damaged heart today to see whether there had been any enlargement. They found none.

Still further evidence of presidential improvement was the half hour, Hagerty said, the chief executive spent this morning playing a picture quiz game with the help of a nurse.

And in Boston, the international-famed heart specialist, Dr. Paul Dudley White, said that "I feel relieved."

He had been suspicious earlier that Eisenhower's weariness last night meant something might be wrong.

Five Days Yet
The President still is not past the danger point. He had a heart attack Saturday, Sept. 21, and the doctors say the first two weeks are the critical ones—complications could set in at anytime during those 14 days. That means he has five days to go in this crucial period.

The chief executive felt well enough today for music in his room and napped soundly in the afternoon.

Over-Attention Tires Patient, Doctors Report

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—Too much attention or over-solicitousness might be a reason why President Eisenhower felt tired Sunday, heart specialists here said today.

Over-attention could interfere with a heart patient's getting the rest he needs, they asserted.

They made clear they were not criticizing the care the President is receiving and said they did not know all the details about his case.

A team of 33 physicians and hospital personnel is caring for Eisenhower, most of them working on day and night shifts. And not all by any means have direct contact with the President or ever enter his room.

Adventists Granted Use Of Christ Episcopal Church

STROUDSBURG SEVENTH-DAY Adventists will be meeting regularly every Saturday through the winter and spring months in Christ Episcopal Church, it was reported yesterday by Adventist Pastor W. R. Bornstein.

The Adventist Church on N. Second St., was ruined as a place of church meeting during the flood. Damage to the building ran into many thousands of dollars, it was announced.

Pews, electronic organ, piano, hymnals, and nearly all accessories to church worship were ruined in the flood waters which engulfed the church and filled the sanctuary to a height of between eight and nine feet.

Expresses Thanks

"The members and rector of the Episcopal Church have been very hospitable during the recent flood emergency," said Pastor Bornstein, "and we are deeply grateful for their kindness in allowing us to continue to use their church building."

Adventists are now laying plans to build in the spring a new church school building which will have an auditorium large enough to accommodate the congregation for worship. The church, Mr. Bornstein said, will soon have before them for final approval the plans and site for the new building. A new church will also be erected on the same property.

Multi-County School Setup Proposal Draws Opposition

Regional Plan Advanced In Legislature

By John Koenig, Jr.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 3 (AP)—A backdrop of controversy is growing around proposed legislation to overhaul Pennsylvania's local school administrative machinery.

Sen. Edward J. Kessler (R-Lancaster), one of the bill's sponsors, reported stiff opposition from some county superintendents to having their present offices eliminated.

In place of the old county superintendent of schools the Commonwealth would set up regional service areas composed of more than one county.

The post of county superintendent would be eliminated the day the new law would take effect. It was understood, however, that some county superintendents might advance to the post of regional superintendent.

32 Service Areas

And the bipartisan bill setting up the reorganization would require creation of at least 32 regional service areas. That compares with the present organization within each of the state's 67 counties.

Sen. Jo Hays (D-Centre) another co-sponsor of the measure, likewise reported some opposition but voiced confidence that the bill would be approved by the Senate.

At present the legislation is before the Education Committee, headed by Sen. Paul L. Wagner (R-Schuylkill), another co-sponsor.

Completing the list of co-sponsors is Sen. Harry E. Seyler (D-York), who like Hays is a school administrator.

Sees Saving

Hays said that elimination of county superintendents could mean a saving of a half million dollars a year.

Gov. Leader last week hailed introduction of the bill and said its purpose is to "obtain equality of educational opportunity for every Pennsylvania youngster."

Hays said the bill might face a stormier passage in the House where county school superintendents are "closer" to local legislators.

Educators generally favor the reorganization, Hays said.

Low Bids Rejected

BANGOR—Borough Council last night skipped over two low bids and awarded fuel oil and coal contracts to the Blue Valley Fuel Service, Bangor.

Councilmen voted 8-4 to accept Blue Valley's offer to supply 5,000 gallons of fuel oil at 12.45 cents per gallon. In doing so, the council turned down a low bid of 11.7 cents from Carl Tolino, Flickville.

At the same time, council voted 10-2 to give Blue Valley the contract to supply pea coal at $13.72 per ton, and barley at $8.93. A low bid of $10.80 for pea and $8.10 for barley came from Charles Hower & Son, Bangor, RD.

In neither case did the councilmen definitely state why they were rejecting the low estimates. However, some indicated they favored giving the contracts to local taxpayers.

To Rule For Borough

Borough Solicitor J. Lawrence Davis, however, pointed out that a bid could not be rejected simply because it had come from an out-of-town firm.

In other action, the solicitor reported that, in a conversation with Northampton County Judge William A. Frack, he learned the jurist is ruling in favor of the borough in regard to the Brown Estate bequest of property in Old Bangor Park.

Davis said he will meet with Council's law committee to discuss the public sale of lots in the property.

Request of the property to the borough had been contested.

Nixon Urges Builders To Erase Slums

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—Vice President Nixon today called on the home builders, the nation's second largest industry, to help stamp out slums.

Nixon made his plea in dedicating the new national housing center as a showcase and research headquarters of the National Assn. of Home Builders.

Standing before the eight-story building crammed with devices to make living easy, he reminded several hundred spectators and officials that a different kind of housing prevails for millions.

"We must step up a dynamic program to eradicate slums and blighted areas from the American scene," Nixon said.

The vice president extolled the home building industry for its near record rate of housing construction and the entire building industry for contributing one seventh of the nation's total production.

"Through research and the exchange of ideas at this center," he said, "all of us will be benefited by better housing in America and throughout the world."

Cruver Enters Guilty Plea To Burglary

TWO BURGLARY suspects — one of them a juvenile — yesterday were sentenced by President Judge Fred W. Davis.

Terry Lee Cruver, 20, Mount Bethel RD, pleaded guilty to complaints involving three Monroe County burglaries dating back to 1953. Judge Davis placed the defendant on parole and ordered him to pay costs and make restitution.

State police said the defendant stole a power mower from the trailer sales showroom of Van D. Yetter, Marshall's Creek. He also was accused of breaking into service stations operated by Ernest Price and Raymond Butz, both of Tannersville.

Cruver was released from Camp Hill Industrial School late last month after serving a sentence imposed for various Northampton County burglaries, State Police said.

Judge Davis also sent a 17-year-old S-trun youth to Camp Hill for an indefinite period, when he appeared before the court on burglary charges yesterday.

Truman Bars Running For Public Office

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 3 (AP)—Former President Harry Truman said in a letter today he never again will be a candidate for public office.

David B. Roberts, prothonotary of Allegheny County, received a letter from Truman that stated: "I will never be a candidate for office again, however, because I think the younger generation should take over. Thirty years in elective public office is long enough for any man, it seems to me."

In a letter to Truman last week, Roberts said he intends to become a candidate for delegate to the Democratic presidential convention next year and will be happy to support Truman for the nomination.

Also eligible to vote this November are 176 non-partisans, 61 independents, four Prohibitionists, and one member of the Progressive Party.

Democrats old 3,176 Edge In Voter Registration For November General Elections

A TOTAL 17,106 Monroe County residents will be eligible to vote in next month's general elections. Figures released by the county commissioners office also indicate the Democrats will at least have a statistical advantage over their Republican opponents.

The Democrats have 3,176 more partisans enrolled than do the Republicans. Totals are 10,020 Democrats to 6,844 Republicans.

The total number of eligible voters in all parties has decreased by 701 since the same period last year when 17,807 persons were enrolled.

However, registration has gone up 548 since last March 26, when 16,558 were eligible to cast their ballots.

GOP Loses Ground

Comparative figure for September 1955 and the same month last year indicate the GOP has been losing ground with the dip in the total number of eligible voters.

At this time last year, there were 10,009 Democrats, and 7,547 Republicans. Now there are 10,020 Democrats and only 6,844 members of the GOP.

Statistics also show the number of male eligible voters outnumber the women by 650. There are 8,878 men registered to 8,228 women.

In the Democratic column, the men have a clear-cut edge with 5,397 enrolled, compared with 4,626 women. But the reverse holds true with the GOP, which has 3,510 women registered and only 3,334 men.

Democratic Lead

The Democrats appear to have the edge in all but three townships—Jackson, Mount Pocono and Paradise—and the Fifth Ward of Stroudsburg.

Road Program Based On Increased Auto License Fee Not Unreasonable

Governor Leader had some good news for the municipalities of Pennsylvania the other day. He announced an increase in the allocation to localities from state gasoline tax revenues, and he proposed also a plan to give greater weight to population density in the allocation of such funds.

This means that areas like the Pocono Mountains would get more of the state's motor tax collections. And that sounds like simple justice to the overburdened local taxpayer.

The state embarked on a farm-to-market road program 25 years ago, in the administration of Governor Gifford Pinchot, and it has continued to spend a considerable share of its own construction funds in rural areas. Meanwhile, aid to local areas has continued in the form of allocations of a share of state road funds.

The share is figured on a basis of 60 per cent for road mileage and 40 per cent for population. Mr. Leader proposes to change this to 55 per cent for road mileage and 45 per cent for population.

While the city dweller uses rural roads on occasion, and thus derives benefit from the state's investment there, most of the traffic is in the urban areas. And the city taxpayers have been increasingly hard-pressed to pay the expenses of streets, freeways, boulevards and traffic control required for this ever growing traffic. Also, the communities have no such easy source of funds as the state has in its gasoline tax, although their traffic produces a large share of such revenues.

Part of Mr. Leader's highway plan calls for an increase in auto license fees from $10 to $15. On the face of it, this amounts to a per capita tax on motorists, but it doesn't have the undesirable features of general per capita taxes which fall alike on those able to pay and those who can't pay.

Unpalatable as it may be to many, the increase Mr. Leader proposes is not out of line with the general price increase for other services. (The $10 rate was set in 1954.) And an extra $5 a year invested in roads can be a good investment for the motorist.

Despite Some Controversy Extension Of Daylight Time One Month Observed

This year, for the first time, the Pocono region is extending Daylight Saving Time another month, and you can expect a certain amount of controversy to boil up over it.

Our time will conform with that of New York, New England, New Jersey and Chicago. Some of the suburbs will go along with the extra hour of daylight, some others won't. There's also a division of opinion among communities in Ohio, West Virginia and Maryland.

The people who make up transportation schedules probably are the most badly irked of those who don't like DST, but the dairy farmers come in a close second. They've been saying for years that their cows don't know the difference between EST and DST, and can't be induced to change their time schedule.

The extra hour of daylight probably is a reflection of the profound change in our living habits during the past 25 years. The five-day 40-hour week has become a standard, the golf courses do a thriving business and home-gardening has become a big industry. Most people can use an extra hour of daylight after work for some purpose or other, which explains why their officials have extended DST.

There's no telling where this tampering with the clock will end. Several European countries went on "summer time" after World War I and when War II came along, they went on year-round daylight saving, which was really a means of saving on fuel costs. Several countries, in 1941, went on "double summer time" but later discontinued the extra hour.

It gets complicated, and we could avoid all this re-setting of clocks by simply starting to work at 7 a.m. instead of 8 o'clock. But who wants to go to work at 7 a.m.?

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Founding Fathers Failed To Foresee President III Without Being Disabled

Richard Nixon was nominated as Vice President because of his salutary work as a member of the House of Representatives where he served on the House Committee on Un-American Activities. He built a national reputation by his persistent investigation into the affairs of Alger Hiss until he got Whitaker Chambers to unearthen the "Pumpkin Papers." Without Nixon's persistence it is possible that Hiss might today be an important figure in American life with a mighty voice in our foreign policy.

As Vice President, Nixon has been able to exhibit few talents because a Vice President must not compete with the President for public recognition. Theodore Roosevelt and Henry Wallace sometimes forgot the etiquette of subordination and struggled against Vice Presidential obscurity, but Richard Nixon served diligently on the Eisenhower team, and was rewarded by inclusion in the Cabinet and the National Security Council over both of which he occasionally presided. President Eisenhower also employed him in ceremonial visits to foreign countries where the Vice President did exceptionally well as a public relations emissary. He has been more active than most Vice Presidents in the administration of the country.

Politically, Vice President Nixon could do very little to enhance his fortunes without violating his relations with the President. He played an exceptionally active role in the 1954 Congressional campaign, speaking over the country and antagonizing the Democrats, particularly the A.D.A. elements in that party. These are now his mortal enemies. For some reason of personality, when Nixon makes an enemy, it becomes personal rather than political. He is reputed to be disliked by such political figures as Harold Stassen, Milton Eisenhower and Nelson Rockefeller, which, if correct, makes Nixon more palatable to most Republicans.

No one can now tell how long Eisenhower will be disabled. It may even be that he will not return to office in this term. It is almost certain that he will not run in 1956 despite all the walling on the part of Len Hall, the Republican National Chairman, who will not have anything to say about it anyhow. The decision will be made by the President and probably was made sometime ago when it was discovered that the President was having difficulties with his blood pressure as well as his temper. He is reputed to have decided to train Nixon to take over, which is laudable in an army officer but does not affect the Vice President's constitutional position.

Nixon may, during the next 15 months, preside at meetings of the National Security Council or the Cabinet. He may receive foreign ambassadors or other visitors, but he may not sign a treaty or make recommendations to Congress or sign commissions in the armed forces. He remains Vice President until he takes the oath as President and Eisenhower cannot hold the Presidency while delegating its responsibilities to anyone.

This situation places the Vice President in a very difficult position. Out of loyalty to Eisenhower, he carries on without authority. The men through whom he must work are not his men; they are the Eisenhower team. Nixon cannot take a position of his own, but he may not be able to ascertain, for a prolonged period, what Eisenhower's wishes are in many areas of public activity. He can, of course, turn to Eisenhower's unofficial cabinet, to Sherman Adams, or John J. McCloy, or Milton Eisenhower for guidance as to the President's wishes, but these are not always in agreement and how could he know whom to follow? He might even in time take a position of his own, but this would lead to an inner conflict in the Eisenhower group.

The Founding Fathers apparently did not foresee such an eventuality as a President being sick without being disabled. They did not envisage such a situation as Woodrow Wilson's illness produced, or, for that matter, Franklin D. Roosevelt's secret sickness to which many attest now who were silent when it was important. The Founding Fathers established a stand-by who would be ready to become President if the President died or became disabled. But they were skimpy in their description of disabling possibilities.

At any rate, Nixon will have a long period of functioning as President in some degree because there is no one else to function with any degree of legitimacy, but without responsibility or authority. It is a startling situation for a great nation.

Filler Newspaper Items Could Provide Education

A person probably could pick up a fair education, of a sort, just by browsing long enough through the bulldog stories and filler items in the papers.

He might never qualify for a doctor's degree but he'd make a handy companion on a quiz show or a long automobile trip.

Fillers are those delightful little paragraphs the printers wedge in at the bottom of a column to keep the rest of the type from falling out—items like "Iron ore mining has been the chief industry on the island of Elba" or "It isn't necessary to trim off the inspection stamp on meat."

Bulldog stories are mildly interesting but slightly irrelevant items that are put in type during slack periods and used to fill holes in pages made up before the fresh news starts coming in.

I take it this piece I read about the lakes was a bulldog story that managed to ride through several editions.

"Lakes, like humans," it says, "have a natural life cycle consisting of youth, maturity and old age."

That much, standing alone, would make a very acceptable filler item. But there was more, all attributed rather vaguely to "German Correspondence."

It seems that when lakes are young they contain few nourishing deposits and minerals. The supply of these is increased gradually by the run-off of sediment from the surrounding country.

These sediments furnish food for plankton, a floating scum of minute organisms which is relished by a variety of very small animals which, in turn, are gobbled up by the fish. As time passes the dead remains of all this animal life collect at the bottom of the lakes. Unless there is enough oxygen to decompose it completely—which there usually isn't—the lake is slowly transformed into a polluted swamp and eventually "dies."

The age of a lake, the article says, can be determined by the type of fish in it. Trout, which need plenty of oxygen, disappear and are replaced by pike and the like.

Now, I suppose this is all old stuff to biologists but it was news to me. I have known all along, of course, that trees and horses and human beings grow old and, sooner or later, die. Why it should seem odd to think of a lake doing the same thing I don't know, but it does. However, I guess it's logical enough.

In any case I am grateful to "German Correspondence" for bringing the matter to my attention. For one thing it throws some new light on my experience as a fisherman. Evidently I have been doing my fishing on some quite elderly lakes.

For another thing, the piece says the Swiss have devised a way of rejuvenating dying lakes. They pump oxygen into them.

If that works with lakes—who knows?—maybe it would work with human beings.

Try and Stop Me

Sipping juleps after eighteen tough holes under the summer sun, two members of a swank golf club glanced covertly at an overdressed blonde who sashayed up to the bar.

"It's just eight years to the day since she came to work for poor old Tom and set her trap for him," recalled one.

"Yes," sighed the other, "and she hasn't shut it since!"

Met over coffee in the club car of the Super-Chief, two substantial-looking citizens exchanged confidences. It was revealed that one was a banker, the other an actor.

"Bet I haven't been in a theatre in five years," mused the banker.

"That's nothing," the actor assured him. "I haven't been in a bank in ten."

"Why didn't you answer my letter?" demanded the lovesick youth from Purdue. "I didn't get it," pouted his adored one, "and furthermore, I didn't like some of the things you said in it."

Formosa Defenses Now Strongest In History

Washington—The defenses of Formosa are now the strongest they have ever been. A significant example of this is that U. S. air strength on the Red-peril island is three times greater than what it was only three months ago. Further, this powerful military buildup is continuing despite those negotiations between the U. S. and Red China which have been in progress in Geneva since July.

Reason for this continuing buildup is the Communists' steadily growing capability of launching a major offensive without warning from the mainland. In addition to scores of heavy gun positions and other preparations opposite the Nationalist-held islands of Quemoy and Matsu, the Reds also have completed an extensive network of jet landing fields in this area. The two offshore islands are now ringed on three sides by these menacing fields.

The Communists are not stationing jet fighters and bombers on these fields. But they are using them daily as refueling and operating bases. Thus, while this battle ground has been quietest of late, it is actually more explosive than ever before, and it can erupt into furious full-scale combat at any moment.

Indicative of this ominous situation is the fact that last month more high ranking U. S. military officers inspected various Formosa areas than at any time since the evacuation of the Tachen Islands last spring. These commanders included the following:

Admiral Alfred Pride, Commander of the Seventh Fleet; Admiral George Anderson, Commander of the Formosa Straits Patrol; Admiral Albert Jarrell, Commander of the Pacific Amphibious Training Command; Major General Kenneth McNaughton, Deputy Chief of the Far East Air Force; Major General Hunter Harris, Deputy Chief of Operations of the Far East Air Force; Major General George Smythe, head of the Military Assistance Advisory Group.

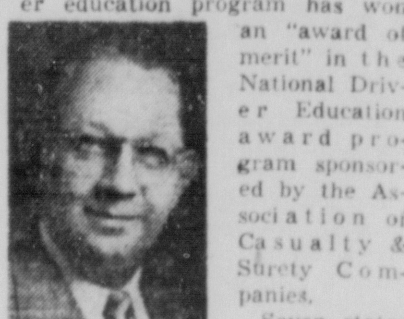

One particular reason for these visits is a delicate problem involving the Nationalist command. This is an attempt to remove General Liu Yu-Chang as Quemoy commander.

Liu was selected by the U. S. for this difficult and dangerous defensive post. Quemoy is the largest of the Nationalist off-

Need More Education For Drivers

—by H. G. Heller

The extent and quality of Pennsylvania's high school driver education program has won an "award of merit" in the National Driver Education award program sponsored by the Association of Casualty & Surety Companies.

Seven states out-ranked Pennsylvania in total point score, but it was the fifth consecutive year the state has been so recognized.

Basis for this recognition is the fact Pennsylvania offered driver education courses in 467 out of 829 public high schools and enrolled 76,891 out of 106,978 eligible students in these courses.

Reason for being outranked by seven other states is that the higher awards went to areas where a greater percentage of schools and students participated in driver education courses.

Measured by any standard Pennsylvania's driver education program is making a definite contribution to highway safety.

To increase this benefit requires only to offer standard courses through more schools and to a greater percentage of eligible students. And, there's plenty of room for expansion of the program right here in Monroe County. That should be particularly easy to do in view of the fact that East Stroudsburg State Teachers College has a full driver education instructor's course where competent teaching talent can be obtained.

The seven states which outranked Pennsylvania in the driver education achievement study were: Minnesota and Massachusetts, awards of excellence; California, Delaware, New York, Oklahoma and Vermont, awards of honor. Awards of merit went also to Arizona and New Jersey.

In carrying the goals out the Association of Casualty & Surety Companies driver education contest, the award program encourages schools to include driver education as an integral part of the curriculum, extend their facilities so that instruction is available to all students, and improve the quality of existing courses.

Herbs And Spices Add Variety And Distinction

Women are spending more and more time making themselves attractive. And in the same spirit, they're using more herbs and spices to give their cooking variety, interest and character.

That's the philosophical conclusion of Norwood Weaver, head of a spice importing house, who's been observing changing customs most of his 65 years.

"Young housewives are always asking me how to use spices and herbs. I advise caution. The best way is to consult a good cook-book and then use the spice or herb sparingly. Always start with a little."

These same young housewives are also learning, he says, that "a pinch of imagination and a pinch of spice can transform a supermarket meal into an epicure's delight."

"Just take scrambled eggs, for example. With an unusual type of pepper, or a herb blend, or hickory salt to give a smoky flavor, or a bit of sherry—wonderful things happen to scrambled eggs."

"After all the art of cooking is, in the last analysis, using spices and herbs to add a note of distinction. These give that unforgettable quality that makes dinner at one home an event, while at another it is only a meal."

Men are buying more herbs and spices too, Weaver says. He says this is because U.S. soldiers in Europe and the Far West ate native dishes away from camp, became interested in how they were cooked and brought back a taste for variety in food.

"Men are adventurous and try new things," says Weaver proudly. "So they became backyard chefs. They wanted their dinners to be remembered for their distinctive quality and they turned to spices and herbs as the best way to get it."

He suggests did seed sprinkled on a pork roast and inserted in little cuts in the meat for a new and different note. "Pork and did seed have a natural affinity," he says. "If you're feeling more venturesome try ginger garlic, a combination of ginger and garlic mixed with salt."

And here's Weaver's own recipe for dilled pork chops. It serves four.

DILLED PORK CHOPS

Ingredients: 4 pork chops; 1 teaspoon salt; 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard; 1/4 teaspoon paprika; 1/4 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper; 1 teaspoon did seed; 4 tablespoons sour cream; 2 tablespoons vinegar; 1/4 teaspoon finely chopped parsley.

Method: Sear chops in a hot lightly greased skillet. Combine all the seasonings and sprinkle chops on both sides. Continue to cook at high heat, turning to avoid sticking. Mix vinegar and sour cream and pour over chops. Cover the pan closely and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) from 30 to 40 minutes. Baste frequently. Remove to hot platter. Sprinkle with paprika and chopped parsley.

Indian Queen Gets Retinue Of College Maidens As Off-Campus Dorm Opens

What may prove to be the most interesting chapter in the still un-written history of the Indian Queen Hotel is being made now as 68 freshman college girls—no, it's 65, since two upperclassmen are included—take up their residence there, the first time in the history of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College that a college dormitory has been opened off campus.

In the long history of the hotel dating back to Civil War Days many notable guests may have stopped there but it is certain none so full of excitement, vitality and the freshness of the youngsters who arrived there on Sunday and are now running up and down its tiered stairway as if they'd been there always.

They are taking them on the run, too, because they must make their engagements at the college in the bus, which makes the college round-trip five times a day, with the first bus leaving at 7:10.

That's the breakfast bus, since all meals will be served in the college dining room on campus. Yesterday morning it was a silent and sleepy-eyed group who came trooping down to make the trip to the college. They were wide-awake and colorful in their Freshmen beanie, with their names tagged on behind, and they were laden with packages from their first shopping trip when they came back yesterday afternoon.

They came back just long enough to leave their packages and head for the college campus again where a Freshman orientation meeting had been scheduled. The last bus from the college will come over at 6:45. That means that any after-dinner activities on campus they wish to take part in will mean either that they walk back to the Queen or find other transportation.

In any event, they must be in the hotel not later than 10 p.m. with lights out at 11. On their first night in their new surroundings, the lights did go out and the hotel quieted down with remarkable promptness as the freshmen weary from running to and fro and exploring their strange surroundings dropped off to sleep in record time.

They'll need that sleep since the waking hour is 6:30 each morning. The same rules that apply on the college campus will apply to the students housed at the hotel. For regulations within the hotel, a student government will be elected within a few weeks.

Supervising this new departure in college living is Miss Janet Sampson, whose title is supervisor of women students in the Indian Queen. Yesterday, she was also playing the role of room clerk behind the lobby desk, passing out the room keys from the boxes to the students, many of whom she already knew by name.

They're an excellent group of girls, she said, judging from her observation of them at a dormitory meeting held on Sunday night, and the whole year should prove a rewarding experience for all of them. They are occupying the first and second floor rooms and the first floor annex. On the main floor they have a smoking room and a study room.

They won't be using those excellent tile floors for mixed dances, however, since their social activities will be centered on the campus. They won't be using the big dining room for dining either. That's the room, characterized by Robert Keller in his history of the county, as "one of the most beautiful dining rooms in the state." It's the dining room with the stained glass windows of the Indian maiden paddling her canoe.

The Indian Queen has at last a retinue of maidens worthy of her queenship, and Main Street is likely to be a much livelier place this winter because of them.

High Level Buffet-Luncheon For Baseball Club

Washington—Nicaraguan Ambassador Guillermo I. Sevilla-Sacasa literally went to bat for something new in Capital party-giving. He threw a buffet-luncheon shindig for the Washington baseball club.

It was a pretty ritzy affair too, staged on the well-manicured lawns surrounding a magnificent swimming pool back of the handsome new Embassy residence, and the players all dressed up in their Sunday suits and fanciest ties were somewhat awed. It was the first time, pitcher Bob Porterfield told me, that any of them had ever been inside an embassy. One sports writer reported that virtually all of the Nats were "grateful that anybody would speak to them." They're battling it out with Baltimore for "the cellar" of the American League.

The ambassador who has been in Washington 12 years and is "Dean of the Latin American diplomatic corps," as an ardent Nats fan, estimates he has seen over 250 games, has "rooted for them every minute," and keeps "hoping that our Washington team can get out of the second division and be up there where they belong."

Dr. Sevilla-Sacasa says that in Nicaragua baseball fever is second to none outside the United States. What's more the handsome young ambassador and his wife, Lillian, are well on their way to building a baseball team of their own. Their eight children were all born here. Guillermo Jr., 11, and Luis, 8, together with some other embassy youngsters and some kids from the neighborhood were on hand to greet the ball players who autographed brand new baseballs for them. Eduardo, 2, even put in a wide-eyed appearance, in tow of a young male nurse, Alejandro, a little over one month old, stayed upstairs with his mother and sisters, Lillian, 10, Edia, 7, Julia, 6, and Lorena, 5. They're baseball enthusiasts too but apparently they considered this a stag affair. In fact, the only woman present were the society reporters who admittedly knew little about the sport and had a tough time identifying the guests of honor.

The ambassador's father-in-law, President Somoza of Nicaragua, is also a baseball fan, a hold-over from his student days in Philadelphia when he attended every major league game played in that town.

Stork Shower Is Held For Mrs. John Manson

A surprise baby shower, honoring Mrs. John Manson was held on Thursday, September 22 at the home of Mrs. David A. Lee.

A conversation piece, in the form of a large stork carrying a baby was centered on a table and the gifts were heaped in a basket nearby.

A social time was enjoyed after refreshments were served to the following:

Mrs. Stanley Hallett, Mrs. Frank Bush, Mrs. Samuel Van Aiken, Mrs. Raymond Miller, Mrs. William Warner, Miss Jane Bush, Mrs. John Stoddard, Mrs. William Harris, Mrs. George Weber, Mrs. Ralph Weber, Mrs. John Manson, Mrs. Joseph Anthony, Mrs. Agnes Manson and the hostess, Mrs. David A. Lee.

Gifts were sent by those unable to attend.

Here's a luxurious company dish: Season heavy cream with garlic powder; mix with cooked cleaned shrimp, cooked rice and cooked green peas. Add sliced water chestnuts if you like. Heat in a large covered skillet and serve with crisp salad and crusty rolls.

If you are national advertising conscious, and make it a point to read all the ads about familiar brands, you are undoubtedly acquainted with the Hoover invitation to "retire your old cleaner." In this month of October only, Hoover offers not just one trade-in allowance but TWO—one of them to be known as the "special retirement allowance." This is what it means to you—it means that for 1945 and your old cleaner, you'll receive the wonderful new Hoover deluxe which, with appliances, would ordinarily cost you 149.90.

Why not call our Hoover department and check today—if you need a cleaner there's no easier way in the world to have the best for so little! . . . Boy oh boy, what comes we have on tap. If any theatrical agent is listening I'm sure he'll be interested in signing up two of our Wyckoff lads. "Hello, brethren," greets one. "Hello cistern," the other replies, quicker than the husking champion could clean a cob. Oh well, in October our thoughts just naturally turn to corn—much more of this and we can supply all the kids with enough to bury the town! . . . Pearl Walter's cosmetic counter is always a sparkling and pretty one. But I particularly like the display of Houbigant's "Fantaisies." Two popular Houbigant fragrances, Quelques Fleurs and Chantilly, are shown in tiny crystal bottles attached to either parasols or tiny chairs, all satiny, lacy, and flower-bedecked. The price is 2.00 and Pearl suggests attaching one of the parasols to the bow atop a bridal shower gift. "Twould be beautiful—and would add something very special to the bridal trousseau. . . . Enroute to New York Saturday, I was amazed to see so many store windows displaying Christmas ornaments. I had thought that we at Wyckoff's were way ahead of time, but the other stores are on the ball (figuratively and literally too!) After all, this is the fourth of October and Christmas comes you-know-when, not more than a couple of corners away! . . . Betty LaBarre assures me we've been selling those exquisite gold and silver filigree earrings from Portugal for months. They are truly lovely, as are the pins and sterling bracelets. . . . ## Mountain Rug & Carpet Memo beware . . .

A Bulletin presented as a Public Service to Our Many Customers

Carbon tetrachloride is a poison and should not be used for any sort of home cleaning, the National Institute of Rug Cleaning warned today.

The warning follows the recent death in Dallas, Texas of Margo Jones, Broadway and Dallas producer and director of such hits as Inherit the Wind and Glass Menagerie. Miss Jones died from uremic poisoning caused by fumes from carbon tetrachloride used to remove spilled paint in her apartment.

Several products sold for home cleaning of clothing, upholstery, and floor coverings contain carbon tet. Although it is an excellent dirt remover, its toxicity is high. When inhaled it has an anesthetic effect. In time it may affect organic tissues such as kidneys, liver and heart.

If carbon tet comes in contact with an extremely hot metallic surface it can even form phosgene gas, one of the deadly chemical warfare gases. When fats, greases, oils, paint products, polishes, and waxes are spilled on rugs and furniture, it is necessary to use a few drops of some dry-cleaning solvent immediately to remove the stain. Col. James W. Rice, director of research for the National Institute of Rug Cleaning, and a man with nearly thirty years previous service in the U.S. Army Chemical Corps, recommends that only nonflammable, non-toxic solvents be used for these home first-aid needs.

When buying a cleaning fluid for such purposes, read the label carefully. "Or better yet," the Colonel suggests, "put the problem in the hands of skilled professionals."

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (P) — The stock market suffered its second major reaction today in the wake of the news of the President's illness.

This is the tenth year that communities throughout the state and nation are exerting a concerted drive to promote employment for physically impaired workers, according to Elmer D. Christine, chairman of the Pocono Mountains Committee on Employment of the Handicapped.

The State Bureau of Rehabilitation and the State Employment Service are two agencies which have had a leading role in this program since its inception. This is primarily because their programs deal directly with handicapped citizens. However, since the outset of this national observance, through which many thousands of disadvantaged individuals have been placed in numerous jobs, dozens of additional organizations, fraternal and civic groups and individuals have taken active part on the various committees in operation throughout the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Measuring Stick
"The stability of any society is measured in terms of the extent to which each individual citizen carries his part of the common load," according to Christine. "Most persons can fulfill their obligations normally but a sizeable number of handicapped persons with physical or mental disability must have certain assistance if they are to assume their proper place in our way of life."

Vocational rehabilitation is the service that these individuals need. It is a program established by the Government to assist disabled persons in obtaining adequate training and other services, including medical, so they can be placed properly in substantial employment where they will be economic and social assets to their communities. If these persons are to make their maximum contribution they must be placed in jobs which are reasonably permanent and in which they can compete, as nearly as possible, on an equal basis with the so-called normal worker, and have the same opportunities for advancement.

"The individual and social gains that stem from every successful rehabilitation is something that is beyond measurement in terms of man hours or taxed dollars of increased earnings. Triumph of each rehabilitation of disability is a reward to the man or woman whose determination has made the victory possible."

Bangor Topples East Stroudsburg Junior Varsity, 12-6

Reese Paces Cavaliers To Only Score

BANGOR—Bangor High's junior varsity football team evened its record for the present season here at Memorial Park yesterday afternoon by piling a 12-6 loss on East Stroudsburg High's yearlings.

The Slaters now have a mark of one win and a single loss, while yesterday's defeat was the first of the season for the Cavaliers.

Defensive play marked the first period and most of the second, but an alert Bangor end took advantage of a break just before the first half became history.

East Stroudsburg began a drive at midfield and with the help of a 25-yard scamper by Don Miller, the Cavaliers rolled to the Bangor 17. At this point Ronnie Van Why attempted to sweep the end, but fumbled enroute. Bangor's Joe Campanaro scooped up the loose pigskin and ran 83 yards for a touchdown as time ran out on the first half. Frank Butz attempted a placement for the extra point, but the kick was blocked by Bob Stine.

Bangor came right back to score in the early minutes of the third quarter. The Slaters marched 61 yards after receiving the kickoff.

"Skip" Menhennit scored on a pitchout from Butz from the nine, after East Stroudsburg had been slapped with a 15-yard penalty for unnecessary roughness. An attempted pass from Butz to Menhennit fell incomplete as Bangor failed to register the extra point.

East Stroudsburg accounted for its only touchdown with approximately two minutes remaining on the clock.

Evan Reese directed the 48 yard scoring march. He passed to Bob Gordon on the 27 and then hit Larry Smith with an aerial on the 14. Reese ran to the nine and then passed to Carl Smith for the touchdown. Joe Martucci blocked Wes Werkheiser's attempted placement.

East Stroudsburg opened the season last week with a 52-0 victory over Pen Argyll, while Bangor's initial contest resulted in a 24-0 loss at the hands of Catawqua.

Robinson May Miss Game

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—Jackie Robinson, veteran Brooklyn Dodger third baseman, disclosed tonight he might not be able to play in the final game of the World Series against the New York Yankees tomorrow because of an injured foot.

Robinson, who failed to get a hit in four times at bat and made one error in today's 5-1 Yankee victory, said the Achilles tendon in his left heel became sore late Sunday.

Statement
"I don't know how I got it," Robinson said "but it pained me all during today's game. I can't tell right now whether I can play. It all depends on how the foot feels tomorrow. I want to play if I can help the club. It is up to Walt (Manager Walter Alston)."

If Robinson is unable to play Don Hoak likely will take over third.

DUKE OPENED the East Stroudsburg Midget Football League with a convincing 28-6 victory over Penn last night at East Stroudsburg Junior High School's field.

A crowd of 300 people watched the first game of football of its kind ever played in this locality.

Duke, coached by Reg Nauman, held a 7-0 lead at halftime and increased its front running margin to a comfortable size in the third and fourth periods.

DeMarco Wins Split Verdict Over Lane

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—Former lightweight champion Paddy DeMarco used every trick in his book tonight to gain a 10 round split decision over Kenny Lane of Muskegon, Mich., at St. Nicholas Arena. The defeat snapped the sixth-ranked lightweight contender's victory streak at 10. Lane weighed 140½ DeMarco 141.

An 11-5 underdog, DeMarco hit and held throughout the clutchfest, violated most of the rules of boxing but caught the eye of two of the officials.

Scoring
Referee Ray Miles 5-4-1 and Judge Artie Schwartz 6-3-1 voted for the 27-year old ex-champ, who is not ranked now. Judge Joe Agnello (7-3) cast his ballot for Lane. The AP card had it even 4-4-2.

Ref. Miller warned Paddy for rabbit-punching, hitting on the break and butting but did not take any rounds away.

The 1,700 fans in the arena and the network television viewers saw little clean cut action.

Pastrano Cuts Down Young

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 3 (AP)—Willie Pastrano, 19-year-old New Orleans dancing master trying to learn to be a slugger, tonight methodically cut his way to a unanimous 10-round decision over a game Paddy Young of New York, who could do little except aim for the body.

Stroudsburg To Feature Grid Program

STROUDSBURG High will feature a special souvenir program for the Thanksgiving Day football game between Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg High. It was decided last night at a meeting of the Stroudsburg Athletic Association.

The meeting took place at the W. Main St. school with T. Manning "Cap" Curtis, association president, in charge.

Curtis revealed that the program will be the biggest ever produced at Stroudsburg High. Regular program ad subscribers will have space in the booklet and additional ads will be collected.

Committee
Alfred W. Munson, Stroudsburg High principal, was named chairman of the program committee, which also consists of Mahlon Serfass, Sam Everett and Curtis.

Members of the association also decided to honor the mothers of the football players again this year. The ceremony will take place at the Stroudsburg-Whitehall contest to be played at Gordon Giffels Field the night of Friday, October 21.

A total of $132 worth of bills was ordered paid at last night's meeting.

It was also decided to hold future meetings the first Monday of every month.

Snider Vows To Play In Final Game

By Ted Smits
NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—Duke Snider, on the very verge of writing his name with baseball's greatest in World Series annals, vowed today he will play tomorrow despite his injured left knee—"and it feels pretty good."

The big, handsome Brooklyn Dodger popped a cartilage when he stepped in a hole running for Moose Skowron's fly in the third.

"My knee popped as soon as I started," he said somberly. "I went on running"—and caught the ball—"but it was a leg I hurt earlier in Chicago, and so I asked Walt Alston to take me out."

"In Chicago I was so stiff I could hardly walk the next day. But now I'll play even if it's stiff."

Manager Alston was as sober and quiet as his big centerfielder. He confirmed what he said yesterday, namely, that he will start John Podres on the mound tomorrow. Podres won the third game from the Yankees 8-3.

Whirlpool
Snider spent most of the game in the Dodger dressing room undergoing whirlpool bath treatment.

Alston said his lineup tomorrow for the big final game would depend entirely on Snider's condition.

The gloomy Dodgers made much of the fact they might have gotten out of the first inning scoreless except for a few bad breaks. Under normal circumstances catcher Roy Campanella, with his rifle arm, might have caught Phil Rizzuto when he stole second after getting a base on balls. It looked as if Giliham was slow in covering the bag, and Campanella was slow in getting the throw away.

"I saw Rizzuto when he started to steal, but I didn't break for the bag right away because you're not supposed to leave too fast," said Giliham. "Anyway the ball caught in the web of Campy's glove."

A moment later, after Gil McDougald had walked, putting two Yankees on base with only one out, Yogi Berra hit a bounding ball just beyond the reach of pitcher Karl Spooner. Giliham broke for it but could not reach it. If he had it might have been a double play.

"Berra's ball stayed down low," said Giliham. "I was playing Berra to the right, and I just couldn't get to it."

Manager Alston said that from the dugout he couldn't tell whether Giliham didn't get over or didn't get the ball.

Had Stuff
"If we'd have gotten the double play ball we'd have been OK," said Alston. "Spooner had plenty of stuff."

Alston, who was riding the crest yesterday with high hopes of winning the first World Series for the Dodgers, sat back in his little cubicle and answered questions in a low voice.

"Newk wasn't right," he said. "I don't know whether I can use him tomorrow or not."

He was referring, of course, to big Don Newcombe, his 20 game winner in the regular season, but a disappointment in the first game of the Series.

The atmosphere in the Dodger dressing room was unusually restrained and quiet. With the world championship in grasp they had not only lost the big game but possibly lost Duke Snider as well. There was nothing to celebrate.

ESSTC's Judy May Be Ready For Tilt With Shippensburg

Lew Judy, lanky East Stroudsburg State Teachers College end, was the only Warrior injured during ESSTC's 19-18 victory over Ithaca College last Friday night. The game was played at Ithaca.

Coach Gene Martin revealed last night that he expects Judy back on the practice field tomorrow and thinks the wingman will be ready for limited duty against Shippensburg on Saturday. The game will be played at Shippensburg.

Fullback Les Brubaker and quarterback Dick Blose are virtually ready for fulltime duty again, after suffering knee injuries in pre-season practices.

Dick Merkle, former Whitehall High star, is still out of uniform with an ankle injury, while sub halfback Dick Blean has a slight swelling of the knee.

Otherwise the team is at full strength and anxious to take part in its first Pennsylvania State Teachers College Football Conference game of the season Saturday.

The team was further strengthened with the return to school of Dick Gloyd, veteran combination tackle and guard, who took part in his first workout yesterday.

Martin revealed that he was well satisfied with his charges in the opening game, although he quickly pointed out that they need plenty of work.

Stanky Accepts Offer To Pilot Millers

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—Eddie Stanky, ousted as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals last May, today accepted an offer to manage the Minneapolis Millers of the Class AAA American Association.

Stanky was hired by the Giants, who operate the Minneapolis club. Although no salary figures were announced, Stanky, 37, reportedly will receive $12,500 as the highest paid manager in the American Association.

He still has one year to go on his St. Louis salary of $42,500 so the Cards will have to pay the difference of $30,000, it was learned.

Decision
Stanky, former teammate of Rigney on the Giants' 1951 pennant winning club, turned down a job as coach of the Cincinnati Redlegs, saying he wants to be a manager.

Eddie also held out on the Giants' offer for several days with the hopes he would be offered a coaching job under Rigney.

Rigney is expected to announce his coaching staff this week. One of the coaches, it was learned, will be Davey Williams, second baseman who had to retire this season from baseball because of a bad back. Williams has only 79 days to go to become a five-year man under baseball's pension plan and the report was he would serve at least that time as coach.

Bell Listens To Kiesling

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3 (AP)—National Football League Commissioner Bert Bell said tonight he held a telephone "hearing" today with Pittsburgh Steeler Coach Walt Kiesling regarding the latter's conduct in the Los Angeles game yesterday and that the case is now "under consideration."

Bell said he had wired Kiesling to appear in the commissioner's Philadelphia office in person tomorrow or contact him by telephone regarding reports that the Pittsburgh coach had berated officials during yesterday's game which the Steelers lost 27-26 in the closing moments of the contest.

Pipher Only Scholastic

Football Injury

ONLY ONE injury of note marred the local scholastic football front last weekend, it was learned yesterday after conferring with East Stroudsburg's Coach Jack Kist and Stroudsburg's Coach John Whitehead.

Bruce Pipher, regular left guard for East Stroudsburg, suffered a dislocated right elbow and possible slight fracture of the same joint while the Cavaliers were battling to a 20-13 victory over Bangor before 4,000 people at Memorial Stadium. The game was played Saturday night.

Kist revealed yesterday that Pipher would be out of uniform for from four to five weeks.

Co-Captain Gene Plaza also suffered bruised ribs in the Bangor contest, but will be back on the practice field with the remainder of the Cavaliers today.

East Stroudsburg enjoyed a holiday from drills yesterday, but will be back at the midweek grind today at 4 p.m. East Stroudsburg battles Lehigh, at Lehigh, on Saturday night.

Stroudsburg
Whitehead announced last night that none of his Stroudsburg griders were injured in last Saturday's heart breaking 13-12 loss to Palmerton, on the latter's gridiron.

The Stroudsburg coach reported nothing but the usual number of bumps and bruises resulting in the average football game.

Stroudsburg held a practice session yesterday and will drill hard for the remainder of the week in preparation for Friday night's tussle with Pen Argyll, at Gordon Giffels Field.

Mack Resting Comfortably

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3 (AP)—Connie Mack, 92, who fell from his bed and fractured a hip Saturday, was reported resting comfortably today at Presbyterian Hospital.

The doctor said he was satisfied with Mack's general condition.

RILEY

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

EAST STROUDSBURG High, the football team they said wouldn't do much this season, has stepped right up and demonstrated that those who do their quarterbacking on street corners don't know too much about the game. All the Cavaliers have accomplished to date is to win three games in as many trips to the gridiron, the latest of which was over Bangor last Saturday night. One of the biggest crowds in the history of Memorial Stadium, over 4,000, watched the pupils of Coach Jack Kist nip the Slaters, 20-13.

This football game, I venture to say, must be included among the very best ever played in Monroe County. It was a thriller from start to finish, with the second half play of the home town ends, Jim Kinley and John Bach, and the line backers being the turning point for the Cavaliers. But, even when the Kistmen enjoyed a 20-6 lead, such brilliant running backs as Bob Finelli and Glen Heard kept the outcome very much in doubt. Finelli is the fastest runner I've ever witnessed on a high school gridiron.

This edition of the N. Courtland St. football team has weaknesses, some of them glaring, but it's the type of club that know how to win friends and influence people. Its weak in reserves and each injury puts that much more of a strain on the squad. But, the team never quits and to date hasn't lost its desire to score and win. One of the big reasons for the early season success of the Cavaliers is their ability and willingness to follow instructions.

East Stroudsburg played a carefully planned game against the Slaters. Scouting reports illustrated the fact that the chink in Bangor's armor was its weak pass defense. So, the Cavaliers passed. Dick Gray, one of the coolest quarterbacks to ever operate in this section of Penn's Woods, threw two quick scoring aeriels. One went to Kinley and the other to Harry Miller, who only this season transferred from Stroudsburg High, where he began the season on the varsity and finished on the junior varsity last year.

After assuming a 13-0 lead, the Cavaliers were faced with the gigantic task of stopping Finelli and Glen Heard. The home team couldn't stop these two kids in the second quarter, but at halftime they were told the method that would at least partially halt the huge gains being made by Bangor's offensive twins. The rest is history, but it might be good to repeat that East Stroudsburg scored once more early in the final period and Bangor didn't register its second score until less than two minutes remained in the game.

Although the team played well, the Cavaliers must recognize the fact that they received a couple of gigantic breaks in a 15-yard penalty against Bangor and a recall of what appeared to be a touchdown run early in the last quarter. Films will prove that the home team made several mistakes against Bangor and that much work must be done during the coming week before the Cavaliers will be ready to face Lehigh.

Lehigh lost to Slatington last Friday, 13-6, and Slatington on the other hand fell before East Stroudsburg, 19-6. But, veteran observers maintain that the Indians actually outplayed Slatington, even though the latter turned in the victory. Members of the East Stroudsburg team must also remember that this same Slatington contingent held the upper hand on a great portion of the statistics sheet even while bowing in the opening game at Memorial Stadium last month.

East Stroudsburg is now the target for every football team in the area. Very few clubs have reached this point in the season without having the bitter taste of at least one defeat rammed into its mouth.

Lehigh has a good club this year and one that is big in size. The Lehighites coaching staff has a good "hook" on East Stroudsburg, as Coach Charley Gernard and his staff have scouted the Cavaliers in at least two of their three games to date. East Stroudsburg was given a holiday from the practice field yesterday, but they must return to the grind today with two thoughts in mind. First, each member of the Eastburg squad must forget about the past and guard against a let down. Congratulations for a job well done in the past won't help in the future. Secondly, the Cavaliers must practice with the thought in mind that Lehigh could very easily ruin the current string of East Stroudsburg victories.

Byrne, Podres Named Mound Rivals For Payoff Contest

By Will Grimley

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—"We're home and we're confident," boomed Casey Stengel today, throwing down the gauntlet to the Brooklyn Dodgers for the seventh and deciding game of the World Series.

"We'll pitch Tommy Byrne," the wrinkled Yankee pilot added over the din of a celebratory dressing room. "After all, he pitched the best game for us here."

"Better than Whitey Ford?" somebody corrected.

"I didn't say that," Casey put in tartly. "I can't go with Ford tomorrow. I mean Byrne has pitched the best of anybody up to date."

"I thought he pitched beautiful ball," Casey said of Ford. "He had his curve working well and he was throwing in that fast ball at just the right time."

No Seares

"He didn't have any scary moments but I wasn't taking any chances. We decided to win this game if we had to throw every pitcher on our roster at them."

"That hit by Skowron in the first inning (Bill Skowron's three-run homer) was just what the doctor ordered. But we had no intention of losing that lead."

Stengel said he probably wouldn't make too many changes in his lineup with the Dodgers pitching Johnny Podres.

"I think our left-handers can hit him as well as our right-handers," he added. "I'll use Hank Bauer again if he feels okay, probably Bob Cerv in center and (Elton) Howard in left. I may have Bill Skowron at first base."

The cotton-topped Ford was the center of attraction in the Yankees' cocky dressing room.

"This is the first game I've finished in a World Series and I've started five," the Glen Cove, N.Y., southpaw said. "I am naturally very thrilled about it."

"I'm just sorry my wife, Joan, couldn't be here to see the game. She couldn't get a baby sitter," Ford has three offspring.

Good Curve

Ford said he thought his curve was his best pitch. He added that as each inning came he decided to "stay loose and try to remain calm."

"I enjoyed pitching to Duke Snider," he said. "It was a challenge."

He struck out the mighty Duke in the first inning before Snider, home run hero of the series, went out with an injured knee.

Skowron, whose rightfield home run wallop turned the game into a boring, drab affair, said he didn't know what kind of a pitch he smote.

"You know me," he added. "I just wound up and took a wild swing."

Billy Martin, the Yankee's controversial second baseman, said the Dodgers were lost in Yankee stadium.

"They don't look like the same ball club in Yankee stadium, a real ball park," Billy said. "They have to have those short leftfield fences for their righthand batting power."

"I think we've got 'em on the run."

Cautious

Stengel was asked if he thought the Dodgers, now even and without their ace outfielder and away from home, looked as if they might be getting panicky.

"I know you'd like for me to say that," The Case commented with a wink. "But I don't think so. They're still strong and they'll be tough."

Exiled Peron Plans Return To Argentina

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Oct. 3 (AP)—Juan D. Peron implied today he plans to return someday to his Argentine homeland. Until then, he said, he is through with politics.

"I will not move a finger in political affairs, but will live a purely private life as Juan Peron," the deposed dictator said in a handwritten statement to a group of newsmen who asked an interview.

"When I do (indulge in political affairs)," he added, "I will return to my country."

The former Argentine strongman, who arrived here yesterday to begin a life in exile, gave no indication when he might try to go back home. He fled to the Paraguayan Embassy in Buenos Aires for asylum 14 days ago in the face of a successful revolt within the Argentine armed forces against his regime. Then he moved to a Paraguayan gunboat docked on the Buenos Aires waterfront. Because of his circumstances, Peron's note said, he is unable to make "any political declaration or publicity" while in Paraguay.

The statement was delivered by a Paraguayan army lieutenant to newsmen keeping watch at the luxurious private home of Ricardo Gayol, an Argentine businessman living in Asuncion.

Screened by a guard of Paraguayan police and tommygunners, Peron took up his residence in the Gayol house after his arrival by air from Buenos Aires. The house has a swimming pool and gardens.

Peron's note gave no hint of how long he planned to stay there.

Gen. Adler, N. Y. Times Manager, Dies

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Julius Ochs Adler, 62, general manager-first vice president of the New York Times and publisher-president of the Chattanooga, Tenn., Times died today of cancer.

In a lifetime of military heroism and journalistic achievement, Adler never was able to decide whether he was a soldier first or a journalist first.

"I have never been able to make up my mind," he once remarked. A decorated hero of World War I, Adler retired from the Army in 1954 as commanding general of the 77th Infantry Division. Off and on for nearly 40 years, Adler had withdrawn from his newspaper executive duties on a temporary basis to serve his country.

Soldier's Soldier
President Eisenhower once referred to Adler as "a soldier's soldier."

In New Guinea during World War II, Adler came down with a kidney ailment that required surgery. It failed to slow him up to any appreciable degree and he later was pronounced fit for active field duty.

However, cancer struck him and four months ago he was operated on for that disease. He returned to his newspaper duties for two months but returned to the hospital Aug. 5.

Death was attributed to cancer of the pancreas—a gland in the abdomen behind the stomach that discharges into the intestine.

Chattanooga Native
Adler, who was born in Chattanooga Dec. 3, 1892, joined the New York Times in 1914, the year he was graduated from Princeton University. He became vice president and treasurer in 1919 and general manager in 1935. In the latter year, Adler became president and publisher of the Chattanooga Times.

Although Adler owned part of the Tennessee paper, it is not connected directly with the New York Times.

Adler began his military career as private in 1915 at Plattsburgh, N. Y., training camp.

Adler was a nephew of the late Adolph S. Ochs, publisher of the New York Times from 1896 to 1935.

PUC To Hear Arguments In Scranton Case

HARRISBURG, Oct. 3 (P)—The Public Utility Commission today fixed Oct. 18 for final argument in Harrisburg on its rule against the Scranton Transit Co. to show why it should not be penalized for failure to furnish service.

The PUC called on the firm, strikebound since last April 5, to show why its operating permit should not be revoked or penalized otherwise for not running its buses.

The last of four hearings was held Sept. 27 when testimony of witnesses for the company and the company and the AFL-bus driver's union was completed.

In requesting the argument, Harry H. Frank, Harrisburg, attorney for Scranton Transit, said he "particularly" wished to discuss PUC jurisdiction over labor-management relations, and the financial ability of the company to provide all necessary service when the strike ends.

PP&L Counsel Criticizes 'Shadow Boxing' Testimony

HARRISBURG, Oct. 3 (P)—The Pennsylvania Power and Light Co. today described as a "great example of shadow boxing" testimony presented to the PUC intending to show PP&L industrial power rates are higher than other utilities.

Jack Busby, Allentown, PP&L general counsel made the comment during a recess at the opening of another three days of hearings—the fourth in a series—on the utility's industrial rate case. Some 23 commercial power users are seeking to have the PUC reduce PP&L industrial rates as excessive.

The utility cut its heavy-use bills by $273,523 a year last Feb. 28 but the complainants contend the rates remain generally excessive.

Busby criticized as "proving absolutely nothing" comparison testimony offered by John W. Guilday, a member of a Pittsburgh consulting engineer firm, on behalf of six Lancaster County firms.

Costs Outlined

"The comparison proves absolutely nothing because it does not take in the cost to the utility in producing the power," Busby contended. He listed wages and materials, distance from raw material sources, etc. as among the important costs to the utility.

"They must be considered for a valid comparison" he said. "This (the Guilday comparison) is a simple comparison of customer bills." The Allentown utility serves some 574,000 consumers in 28 eastern Pennsylvania counties but residential rates are not involved in the case.

Change By Air

LONDON, Oct. 3 (P)—The British Royal Navy is taking to the air Nov. 1 to change crews on the cruiser Newcastle at Singapore. Fifteen chartered airliners are to fly 550 officers and men from Britain to the 9,000-ton warship and ferry back the old crew. The Admiralty explained this would save the nine weeks normally needed for the voyage home and rule out the necessity of sending another cruiser to replace the Newcastle during recommissioning.

A total of 409 million dollars was spent on new U. S. religious structures in the United States in 1950.

Farm Prices Up, Reversing Trend

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (P)—The Agriculture Department reported today that prices of farm products increased 1 per cent between mid-August and mid-September.

This increase halted a four-month decline in prices that has brought sharp criticism of administration farm programs from some Democrats.

before George Stuart, PUC hearing examiner, officials of each of the firms used in the comparison study appeared and put their names and business connection into the record.

H. J. Latta, PUC lawyer, said he thought that a fifth series of hearings would possibly conclude the case. The hearings began in April and were continued in June and July.

Logan Joins State Tax Discussions

HARRISBURG, Oct. 3 (P)—Edward B. Logan, budget secretary under five Republican governors, today joined Gov. Leader's tax compromise conferences with Republican and Democratic legislative leaders.

His role was a principal adviser to Republican participants in the sessions. Logan was replaced by Andrew Bradley as budget secretary when Leader took office last January.

But he and all other conferees declined comment on whether they were achieving any progress toward a solution of the Commonwealth's fiscal dilemma.

The participants spent all day in the first of two consecutive meetings before the Legislature returns to Harrisburg Wednesday after a week's recess.

Dent Pessimistic

Asked by a newsmen if he expected the tax compromise to be achieved this week, Sen. John H. Dent, Senate Democratic floor leader, replied:

"Are you kidding?" Today's session was the seventh in two months since the governor asked top leaders from both sides to iron out their tax differences.

Senate Republicans defeated Leader's plan for a classified income tax.

Since then, Republicans offered
